Art Unit: 3753

The following is a quotation of the first paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall contain a written description of the invention, and of the manner and process of making and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the same and shall set forth the best mode contemplated by the inventor of carrying out his invention.

Claims 5-11 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as failing to comply with the written description requirement. The claim(s) contains subject matter which was not described in the specification in such a way as to reasonably convey to one skilled in the relevant art that the inventor(s), at the time the application was filed, had possession of the claimed invention. There is no written description of a “built-in” flexible hose connecting a soft tube with a water tap. On the contrary, hose 9 is disclosed as being connected to the soft tube.

Claims 5-11 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as failing to comply with the written description requirement. The claim(s) contains subject matter which was not described in the specification in such a way as to reasonably convey to one skilled in the relevant art that the inventor(s), at the time the application was filed, had possession of the claimed invention. There is no enabling disclosure of how to make and use a box with a “built-in” flexible hose in that only a connected hose 9 is disclosed.

Applicant's arguments filed August 31, 2009 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive. Applicant has argued that the claim recitation of “built-in” means integral and that the claim recitation distinguished over the applied Prior Art. However, the original specification and drawings disclose only a water service box made up of multiple separate elements that are connected together, for example soft duct 34 with a threaded connector, flexible hose 9 with threaded connectors at either end, socket 22, connector 11 of the hose 9, nuts 10 and 20, and connection pipe 29. Hose 9 is disclosed as being "jointed" to duct 34 and pipe 29 is disclosed as being fitted into socket 22. It should be noted that none of such disclosed elements are a valve.

An assemblage of such separate elements connected together into a water service box is a typical plumbing installation and is notoriously well known in the art. There is no original disclosure of a flexible hose that is integral with a water service box case as such language is commonly understood, and thus no disclosure of a flexible hose that is "built-in" to a water service box case.

Since there is no disclosure of the claimed invention, there can be no enabling disclosure if the claimed invention.

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

Claims 5-11 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

The claim recitation of a built-in flexible hose is indefinite in that no such built-in flexible hose is disclosed and the metes and bounds of the claim cannot be determined.

Applicant's arguments have been fully considered but they are not persuasive. The Examiner's comments above are incorporated herein. Since there is no disclosure of a flexible hose that is integral with a water service box case, as such language is commonly understood, and Applicant has argued that the claim recitation of "built-in"

means that the flexible hose is integral with the case, the claim is indefinite under §112 because it is impossible to determine how the claim language distinguishes over the Prior Art teachings of separate elements connected together and, thus, what the metes and bounds of the claim are.

THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
